Building skills

Students from River City High School's ROP Construction Academy have been working on building a storage shed for the school's Electronics Academy. Earlier this month, the class participated in the Design/Build Competition sponsored by the Sacramento Builder's Exchange. The construction academy's students work under the direction of RCHS faculty member Spencer Yarwood.

Wintuns agree to help Yolo County acquire 17,000-acre Conaway Ranch

Yolo County announced yesterday that it had reached an unusual agreement with the Rumsey Band of Wintun Indians, in which the casino-owning band has agreed to finance the county's acquisition of the 17,300-acre Conaway Ranch from (currently-unwilling) private owners.

The acquisition could occur "either through private acquisition or eminent domain proceedings," said a county statement.

"We are not aware of any other partnership in the nation where a local county government and a recognized Indian tribe have joined together to preserve more than 17,000 acres of open space for the public's benefit," said Helen Thomson, chairwoman of the county's board of supervisors.

Yolo County officials added that county general fund moneys will not be used to buy the land.

The central Yolo County land includes 15,900 acres of farmland and a large inventory of surface water and groundwater rights.

Legion honors returning players

All-Star game coming —

Raley Field in West Sacramento will host the 2005 Triple-A All-Star baseball game. The stadium may not play host to the event for another 30 years, reports the Sacramento River Cats team.

Triple-A is the highest level of professional baseball's minor league, and the River Cats are the farm club of the Oakland A's major league squad.

The All-Star game will take place July 13, and there will be a "home run derby" earlier the same week.

For more information, visit www.rivercats.com.

Parade poster contest —

Katie Villegas, director of this year's West Sacramento Community Day Parade, announced last week that the parade is scheduled for October 1. A "Neighbors Fair" will again follow the parade at River Walk Park.

Theme of the parade this year is "Celebrating an All-Star Community."

The parade committee invites children to participate in a poster contest, with a $100 cash prize and other prizes. Poster contest winners will also be "junior grand marshals" in the parade. Deadline for entry is June 3 and details are available at local schools.

The parade typically features marching bands, music groups, dance clubs, car clubs, horse associations and Shriner go-carts, said Villegas.

For more information, call her at 375-1132.

PG&E challenges figures

Directors of the Sacramento Municipal Utility District (SMUD) will vote Thursday on whether to expand into West Sacramento and other parts of Yolo County, by invitation of local cities and the county itself.

But private power provider PG&E continues to fight what it calls a "hostile takeover" by SMUD, and scheduled a briefing and tour yesterday (too late for coverage here) whose purpose was to expose what a PG&E press release called "fatal flaws" in the cost analysis for the SMUD expansion. PG&E alleged "egregious inventory errors" in such in-place equipment as transmission towers and power poles.

PG&E says that SMUD will have to spend a half-billion dollars to acquire PG&E's assets during the proposed takeover, while SMUD's analysis has projected a much lower cost.

The Yolo County jurisdictions and SMUD also expect that SMUD can provide lower power rates than PG&E currently does.

In local government —

The West Sacramento City Council will meet tonight in open session at 7 p.m. at city hall.

Among the agenda items are approval of an agreement with the state for the US 50/Harbor Blvd. interim improvement project, beginning of the annual weed abatement pro-

Guardian says 'gang color' rule unfair

■ Grandmother involved in dispute over color of prom dress responds to school officials' explanations

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Her granddaughter won't wear that "maroon" dress to the prom, reports Sandra Keylon.

The dress was the center of a small tempest at River City High School durning the past couple of weeks, after a campus safety committee opined that "burgundy" clothing was prohibited at school events because it was identified by a West Sacramento police gang-enforcement officer as a "gang color." After learning of this, Keylon showed the dress to the school district superintendent, who told her he thought the dress was fine because it "wasn't red." The color "red" had expressly been forbidden by school policy, while "burgundy" was referenced only indirectly.

Superintendent Campbell last week admitted that he erred in this decision, as he hadn't learned that "burgundy" was prohibited as well. So he and Keylon met again, after a protest from campus officials.

"I bought a new dress Friday," said Keylon. "He said she could also wear the maroon one too – he's a very nice man."

But Keylon still feels that the safety committee – and the district's enforcement of a prohibition against gang colors – is unfair.

"The school handout says no blue or bright red," she stated. "It does not mention burgundy, wine color, maroon or whatever this dress is. I feel she was singled out. (My grandaughter) is a special education student. The dress was at the school for a while, and the color wasn't an issue. And half the prom class last year wore that exact same color. They claim they've been enforcing this for five years."

Keylon said she has also contacted members of the local Broderick Boys gang to see if they indeed used "burgundy" as an identification color, as police claimed.

"I went in search of the Broderick Boys," said Keylon. "I probably could have had my a__ kicked this weekend, but didn't. Through a friend of a friend who knew there were some members in the neighborhood, I talked to some. I went over to the Golden State area and met with some of them, who assured me that maroon was definitely not their color."

Keylon said she feels the district is not uniformly enforcing its color policy, and said she has contacted an attorney to address the civil rights issues involved.

So while Keylon said that Campbell won't technically revoke his permission for the burgundy dress belonging to her daughter, the color remains prohibited at the school.

Promoting education:

Volunteer's work with young offenders lauded

The California Judicial Council has awarded a "Ralph N. Kleps Award" to Yolo County's court system in recognition of a program to promote education to minors involved in the juvenile dependency and delinquency court.

The "driving force" behind the program, said the court office, is volunteer Charlotte Beal, who was asked by Judge Donna Petre in 2003 to work with minors in the juvenile justice system. Beal already was active with adult literacy at the Yolo County jail, and began a "Gaining Education through Determination" ("G.E.D.") program with miners.

"Under her tutelage, the minors are not just passing the test but achieving very high scores," said Judge Petre. "Most of these kids had given up on education, and in the G.E.D. program, they realize their hard work yields concrete results. They can succeed academically and in the world."

When minors come before the court, judges ask them if they are interested in the voluntary program.

Beal then meets with juvenile volunteers and sets up a custom tutoring and testing schedule. The Yolo County Children's Fund pays testing fees for the minors to take the high school equivalency exam (G.E.D.).

A donation from a Woodland attorney ensures that, in addition to a certificate and public recognition, each youth passing the test also receives a $100 cash gift.

Getting an overdue baby into the world

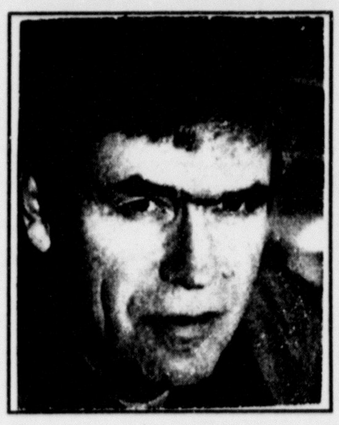
My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

As some of you may remember, I have mentioned in this column on a couple of occasions that I am scheduled to soon become a grandfather for the very first time, an experience I am of course quite excited about. However, my soon-to-be grandson (already named Riley) appears to be taking his own sweet time about getting here! He was officially due to arrive on May 13th, which was last Friday, and as I write this column on an overcast Sunday morning with not much else to do but continue to wait, he is now already three days late.

I must admit that I was pretty sure Riley would not make it into the world on his due-date because his mother (my daughter) was over two weeks late when she was born (as were all three of my sons), so babies not paying much attention to their due-dates kinda runs in our family. And because of that, I am actually quite sensitive to how a woman who has gone beyond her due-date begins to feel about the miracle of birth. I mean, it is easy to understand how anyone who has cheerfully sublet her uterus to another human being for 40 weeks might start to become a little less than thrilled with the thought of uncomfortably toting around all that extra weight for a couple of added weeks that weren't part of the original deal.

For instance, my wife, who is by nature a very understanding and even-tempered woman, was not always exactly Miss Congeniality once she had put in her nine months of carrying around a baby with absolutely nothing to show for it. In fact, sweet little sentences like, "Don't you ever do this to me again!" were not uncommon, not to mention some pretty heated philosophical discussions dedicated to the one topic all men desperately try to avoid at such times -- "So, just why is it that women are the ones who have to give birth instead of you worthless men?"

"Hey," I remember telling my wife the first time this conversation came up, "you didn't have to go to Vietnam -- so us guys get stuck with some hard stuff, too, you know." But when I tried to hide behind the very same argument when our last child was also two-weeks late, I will admit that my wife did make a pretty good point -- "But you didn't have to go to Vietnam four times!"

Anyway, knowing that my daughter is not exactly thrilled by going past her due-date, and being a typical man who has absolutely no clue about what to say or do at such times, I decided that researching all the wives tales surrounding how to make an over-due baby get with the program might be of some interest to her.

"You did what?" asked my daughter.

"I looked all over the Internet to see what women down through the ages have done when they were over-due."

"You mean wives tales?"

"Right."

"But this is the 21st Century, Dad."

"I know," I said, "but women have been having babies since the dawn of time and you'd be surprised at how logical some of these wives tales really sound. For instance, some of the more popular ones are simply going for long walks, taking warm baths, and even having lots of sex."

"I've read all that stuff, Dad -- there's nothing new about any of it."

"But I bet you haven't heard some of these; do deep knee bends, mop the kitchen floor, eat hot Buffalo wings or most any spicy food, paint your toenails, drive around on a bumpy road, drink raspberry tea, have an enema, eat eggplant, stroll up and down a hill a bunch of times, make yourself a castor oil cocktail, go for a neighborhood walk while always putting one foot in the gutter..."

"Stop!"

"What's the matter?"

"Why do I even keep picking up the phone?" my daughter asked herself. "It's either people wanting to know if the baby is here yet -- which I am sick of hearing -- or you telling me to mop the kitchen floor and make myself a castor oil cocktail!"

"By the way," I said, "the way you do that is you get yourself a big glass of orange juice and then put in three teaspoons of castor oil and one teaspoon of baking soda. You can also mix it up in one of those Slim Fast shakes if you want."

"You're going to make me barf!"

"So, I take it then you don't want to hear any of the details about what is arguably the most successful wives tale of them all?"

"Okay, okay -- what is it?"

"Well, you'd kinda need Dallas for this one?"

"Dad, trust me, having lots of sex with Dallas for whatever reason is the very last thing on my mind right now!"

"Well, it's not exactly that."

"Then what is it?"

"Well, supposedly the number one way to start labor naturally when a baby is over-due is to have a dozen or so 20 to 30 minute sessions of nipple stimulation."

"Go away, Dad!"

"But they say it really starts the contractions coming."

"Hang up the phone, Dad."

"Oh, and I almost forgot, there is another pretty good one that I know for a fact works."

"Alright, tell me it and then hang up."

"Well, they say sometimes it really helps to have a big, long, loud fight with the father."

"Now that one should be no problem!"

Every day I get calls from people asking me the same question...
'Can you take a look at this Good Faith Estimate to see if I am getting the best deal?'
This coming from people I don't even know, and from past clients who for whatever reason were convinced by someone they should do a certain type of loan...
Well today's your lucky day...
I want to put to rest all of the confusion out there about loans and real estate. With the incredible growth in this town, (and all over for that matter), there appears to be an influx of loan agents and realtors popping up all over the place wanting your business. All that is fine, and healthy, but how do you know you are getting a good deal?
As your local lender, and someone who was born and raised in this community I feel an obligation to inform you; my friends, family, clients, and future customers the inside scoop on the real estate industry. With over 15 years of Real Estate experience I can tell you that I have seen it all, from one page purchase contracts, to having your loan application go to a banking committee for approval. Much has changed in the industry, however many things haven't. People still need financing, and people still are buying and selling homes, but at what cost?
This is why I, along with many of my affiliates are sponsoring a series of classes to educate you on all the costs associated with loans, what you should pay for and what to look our for. We will dissect a Good Faith Estimate and walk you through the whole process. You will also learn that you have choices when buying and selling a property. You will be introduced to Title companies, Termite companies, Home inspectors and will have the opportunity to hear directly from underwriters from different companies explaining what they are looking for.
This is going to be an extremely powerful series, so call right away and reserve a space now.

Jadol & Shofner win as a tennis duo

From River City High School

River City High School's Judd Jadol and John Shofner became just the second boys doubles team in school history to win a Sac-Joaquin Section Tournament championship last week. The pair won four straight matches at Stockton's Oak Park to join the 1984 team of Dave Bosley and current Raider Coach Dave Brooks.

Jadol, a senior, and junior Shofner beats doubles teams from Marysville, Delhi, and Colfax before winning the title against Ripon's top team by a blowout score of 6-0,6-2.

RC teammates Vu Tran and Pa Yang had a good run at the Section tourney, too, reaching the semifinals in girls doubles. The duo defeated teams from Modesto Christian and Forest Lake Christian before losing to a Calaveras pair in the semifinal, 2-6,4-6. In mixed doubles, River City's Ou Saejao and Koy Saetern lost a marathon opening match against Colfax, 4-6,6-0,6-5(5).

In other River City tennis action, the team defeated Marysville in the opening round of Section team playoffs 4 to 1. The girls doubles team of Pa Yang and Anna Bouttavong cruised to a 6-0,6-3 victory to start the afternoon, and John Shofner and Vu Tran quickly followed with a 6-4,6-2 win in mixed doubles. The Raiders' top boy, Judd Jadol, then clinched the win with a 6-4,6-2 victory in boys singles. A fourth RC win was earned in girls singles by Koy Saetern.

River City is now 20 and 3 in 2005 and will move on in the playoffs to take on Pioneer Valley League champion Mira Loma this week. The winner advances to the Section Final Four in Stockton.

SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa

The two Bay Area professional baseball teams are enduring bad weather and the even worse pitching as they head into a three game series this weekend. The Giants are still missing Mr. Bonds and continue to slump while the Oakland A's celebrated the return Jason Giambi to the Coliseum. Well, celebrating might be the wrong word to use even though he was shower with beer by one of adoring fans. It's the "Battle of the Bay".

Major League Baseball

Baseball Commissioner Bud Selig is really taking the Steroid issue to the house limit. Selig has already up the ante with his proposed policy. The Commish is recommending six months suspension on the first offense, one year on the next and a lifetime ban from baseball for strike three. Now the Senators in DC are asking Selig to hand out a two-year suspension for a player's first offense! Word from Nob Hill is Selig is buying into the punishment. Believe me that will stop steroid use!

The Giants (18-19) are still struggling to stay around .500 but the A's (15-23) are in early season trouble. Two weeks ago the A's were either in first place or 1 game out. The A's are now trailing the Angels and Rangers by 7 games. The good news for A's fans was on Monday night Oakland snapped an eight game losing streak against the defending champion Red Sox.

The A's are at home this week against Boston but the battle of the bay will begin on Friday night when the G-Men paddle across the bay for a weekend showdown with the Green Machine. At least some bay area baseball fans will enjoy their weekend. I hope you do too!

NBA Playoffs

In the Western Conference the second round of the playoffs are getting interesting with the return of "Fade Way" Ray from his twisted ankle in game one. Allen returned to the home court to lead his Sonics to back to back win in Seattle. The Sonics tied the best of seven series against Tim Duncan and his favored San Antonio Spurs. Remember Seattle has not lost a home game in the playoffs! Too bad they don't have the home court advantage.

Speaking of home court advantage, the Suns are going to need it to get by the talented Mavericks. Dallas tied the series at 2-2 on Sunday and the fun is just getting started. I love watching the Mavs owner Mark Cuban squirm in his seat on every play! That's Fun!

Miami is mugging the Wizards and should close out the series soon but the Pistons and Pacers are still at war. I repeat, these teams do not like each other. The Pacers need Reggie to shoot the lights out or Detroit will be back in the Eastern conference final with the Heat. Next week I'll pick my Conference finals.

Boxing News

Boxing returns to the Arco Arena on May 27th with the return of 2004 Olympian Vicente Escobedo. The main event will pit Rogelio Castaneda in a 12-round IBA junior-welterweight title fight against Tomas Barrientes.

As good as the championship bout between Corrales and Castillo was a couple of weeks ago last Saturday's $49.95 boxing PPV was a stinker. The return of Felix Trinidad against the defending middleweight champion Winky Wright was a huge mismatch. Winky was way to fast for 32 year Puerto Rican legend that should consider retiring.

Trinidad was a great fighter in his time but it's time to call it quits!

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

What are you afraid of?

Afraid to speak out?

About once a year, it seems, there arises in West Sacramento some kind of issue that generates heated debates and fiery opinions. Maybe it's a developer's bid to pave some farmland. Perhaps it's a proposal for a cardroom or a casino. Whatever it is, it will pit neighbor against neighbor in a kind of local civil war.

The News-Ledger gets its share of phone calls when these issues come up. People call to "vent"; they voice their opinion and get their views off their chest. We try to listen.

"Why don't you put that into a letter-to-the-editor?" we suggest.

"Uh – let me think about that," goes the response much of the time. "I have to be careful about what I say."

Some people think the world will come to an end if they take a public position on a controversial stance. Neighbors will shun them, they fear. Longtime customers will take business away.

But is it really that bad? The News-Ledger has a little experience in the matter. Sometimes, the newspaper's views do seem to have gotten it into a little trouble. But looking back over the past 15 years, the bad stuff hasn't been too frequent or too severe. Some examples:

■ After the News-Ledger's stand against adding more industrial development in the 1980s, a coalition of enemies in the business and local government world worked together to create a competing newspaper and attempted to drive us out of business. But this was an exceptional situation. And, as one opponent later noted, killing the News-Ledger was "like trying to kill an infestation of cockroaches – much harder than you think." (Yes, we took that as a compliment.)

■ The newspaper's coverage of a police union strike in the 1990s, as well, made some people mad. After the newspaper was critical of the union's controversial front-man (remember Wendell Phillips?), your editor found himself pulled over in a traffic stop at the News-Ledger office. No big deal – the officer explained that he was looking for a suspect named "Bubba" who had burglarizes a home nearby. The editor was soon released. Later, a police official said "Bubba" was something of a nickname for people deemed too sympathetic to the management side of the issue. The official allowed that the traffic stop might have been a minor form of harassment.

■ Then there was the fire inspection. Every year, the fire department pays us a call and one or two courteous firefighters drops in with a clipboard and checks for hazards – the same as they do with other local businesses. They usually finish up in a few min-

Letters to the Editor —

Illegal immigration

I am so glad to hear the president, and others in government, recently address the issue of illegal immigration in a forthright and honest manner. I wonder, however, if legislation is pending to hold personally responsible those who, under the color of authority, use their position of public trust to create 'enforcement free zones' for illegal aliens in their communities and schools? That too must stop. Now.

If you're wondering why I feel so strongly that this is a subject of such great concern and significance to us here in West Sacramento, and why I believe it's not only of vital importance to the border states but to the rest of our nation as well, it's because, beyond the obvious levels of giving easy access to those

"The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy"

Running time: 110 minutes
MPAA rating: PG

Under the heading for Earth in The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy it reads, "Mostly Harmless." The description for the film of "The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy" should read, "Mostly Dull."

Whatever possessed the Disney Company, director Garth Jennings and co-writer Karey Kirkpatrick ("Chicken Run") to turn what was an extremely popular series that combined science fiction with Monty Python humor (creator Douglas Adams was a former writer for the Pythons) into a romantic comedy is beyond me.

The film stars Martin Freeman (of the BBC sitcom "The Office") as Arthur Dent, a confused, middle-class Brit who is rescued from Earth's destruction by his friend Ford Prefect (Mos Def) who, unbeknownst to Arthur, is in reality an alien researcher for The Guide.

The pair stumble from situation to situation until they meet up with Galactic President Zaphod Beeblebrox (Sam Rockwell), Marvin the Depressed Robot (voiced by Alan Rickman) and Trillian (Zooey Deschanel), the last Earthwoman alive and Arthur's soul mate. The quintet then go on a quest to find the apocryphal planet of Magrathea to snag a powerful weapon and discover the Great Question, whose Great Answer is "42."

First, the Good: The art direction is fabulous. This movie looks darned good. The acting for the most part is great, except for Sam Rockwell's pathetic impression of President Bush and Mos Def's unconvincing portrayal of Ford. There are also a couple wonderful cameos (which I won't spoil) and a funny opening song involving dolphins.

The Bad? Pretty much everything else.

The ultimate failure of the filmmakers is that they forgot (or never realized) what it was about the book that made it so popular. "The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy" isn't so much a great story or fantastically brilliant novel. What the book is, is a series of clever plays on language and funny insights into life, the universe and everything. What we remember from the book are lines like the one where it describes the Vogon ships as "hovering in the air in exactly the same way bricks don't."

Martin Freeman

That's where the filmmakers got it wrong. They forgot that "The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy" is about language and ideas. Once they stripped the film of most of the great lines and musings from the book in favor of making another bland, Hollywood romantic comedy, the heart, soul and wit of Douglas Adams was lost.

BLUEBERRIES ARE HERALDS OF SUMMER

You know summer is on the way when blueberries hit the stands. These little blue globes not only add color to food, but health benefits as well. And they're easy to eat. After a quick rinse, blueberries are ready to pop into your mouth, garnish with cream or ice cream, or add to any number of dishes.

Here are a couple of ways that will help you get one of your five-a-day servings of fruits and vegetables. Either dish makes a delicious weekend breakfast or brunch, and the Blueberry-Maple Bake can also serve as dessert after a light meal or as a nighttime snack.

FLUFFY BLUEBERRY PANCAKES

- 1 1/2 cups part-skim ricotta cheese or drained small-curd cottage cheese
- 1/4 cup butter, melted
- 4 egg yolks
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel (yellow part only)
- 8 egg whites
- *2 cups fresh blueberries Blueberry Ginger Sauce

In medium-sized bowl, combine ricotta, butter and egg yolks until blended. In small bowl, stir together flour, sugar and lemon peel. Stir dry ingredients into ricotta mixture. In a medium-sized bowl, beat egg whites until they form soft peaks. Fold egg whites and then blueberries into batter. Over medium heat, spoon 1/4 cup of batter per pancake onto a hot, lightly greased griddle or skillet. Cook cakes, turning once, until browned, about 4 minutes. Serve with Blueberry Ginger Sauce (recipe follows). Makes 6 portions (24 pancakes)

*BLUEBERRY GINGER SAUCE

In a large saucepan, combine 2 cups fresh blueberries, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch and 1 tablespoon finely chopped crystallized ginger or 1/2 teaspoon dried ground ginger; stir in 1/3 cup water. Over medium-high heat, bring to a boil; cook and stir until sauce thickens, about 1 minute. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

BLUEBERRY-MAPLE BREAKFAST BAKE

- 1 (14-ounce) loaf egg challah or other white bread
- 4 ounces reduced-fat cream cheese
- 2 cups fresh or frozen blueberries, divided
- 8 eggs, beaten
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1/4 cup maple syrup
- 1/4 cup melted butter

Preheat oven to 350 F. Remove crusts from bread; cut in 1-inch cubes (makes about 10 cups). Cut cream cheese in small cubes (makes about 1 cup). Grease 9-by-9-by-2-inch baking dish. Place half of bread cubes in dish. Scatter cream cheese cubes and 1 cup of blueberries over bread. Top with remaining bread cubes and blueberries. In a bowl, combine eggs, milk, maple syrup and butter. Carefully pour over bread mixture. Bake until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean, about 1 hour, covering with aluminum foil if edges brown too much. To serve, cut in squares. Accompany with additional maple syrup, if desired. Makes 9 portions.

Q. I often watch "Judge Mathis" on TV when I have a day off from work, and I have some questions: First, is he a real judge as the show claims? Second, he says he was a gang member. Has he ever explained how he got out of the criminal life? And what can you tell me about his private life? — *Diana H.

A. Judge Greg Mathis was elected to Michigan's 36th District Court in 1995 and was, at the time, the youngest person in Michigan's history elected to the bench. Mathis did belong to a gang and got in trouble with the law. He credits both his mother's faith in him and a Jesse Jackson sermon for inspiring him to change his life and become a lawyer. Mathis and Linda Reese have been married since 1985 and have three children.

Q. On a recent (CNN) "American Morning," one of the news hosts, Soledad O'Brien, mentioned something about her varied heritage. As someone who is of mixed heritage myself, I would like to know what her background is. — *E.W.

TEST DRIVE
by Greg Zyla

2005 Honda Civic Hybrid
Base price: $20,260
Price as tested: $20,260

We were greatly impressed in our weeklong drive of the 2005 Civic Hybrid, a four-door sedan that is strong on safety and offers stellar 46-mpg city and 51-mpg highway fuel ratings.

Civic's hybrid engine won't win any drag races. It's an eight-valve, four-cylinder, 1.3-liter lightweight that cranks out just 87 horsepower. But who cares? It had plenty of get-up — the manual transmission on our tester certainly helped — and the 300 miles we drove only drained half the fuel from the tank. Honda says you'll get 650 miles per tank, and even models with the continuously variable automatic transmission carry impressive 48 mpg city/47 mpg highway ratings.

The great mileage comes thanks to Honda's Integrated Motor Assist, which combines the lightweight gasoline engine with a compact electric motor. (Note: You don't have to plug these Hybrids into an electrical outlet.) If you need service, you take the Civic Hybrid to any Honda dealer, as no special treatment is required, and the battery pack comes with an impressive eight-year/80,000-mile warranty. The combination of fuel savings and emissions control makes the Civic Hybrid, introduced in 2002, eligible for the federal clean-fuel tax deduction.

While your wallet is protected from gas prices, drivers and passengers can feel safe as well in the front-wheel-drive Civic. As much as we enjoyed the great fuel mileage, the safety features equally impressed us. They include driver and front passenger dual-stage airbags, driver and front passenger side airbags, side-impact door beams, anti-lock brakes, three-point seat belts, front and rear crumple zones and the LATCH system for child seats.

Civic's interior is roomy and comfortable. We offer a "tip of the hat" to Honda for softening the armrest with a cushion on top; for once, a long ride in a modestly priced vehicle didn't produce a sore elbow. Another attractive feature is the instrument panel, which is illuminated with pretty sky-blue lighting.

You'll want to study your options, particularly against the Prius.

2005 Honda Civic Hybrid

Likes: Gas mileage, safety features

Dislikes: Exterior needs a bit more flash

As for on-the-road driving, we give the advantage to Honda's Civic, as it's more secure in all areas, including cornering, comfort and road "feel."

I MAY NOT SELL YOUR HOUSE!
The listing agent sells only about 2% of all listings nationwide. When you list your house with me, I'll try to sell it by myself. But more importantly, I'll just get it sold.
Colleagues in my firm or real estate agents affiliated with a cooperating broker may sell my listings. That's why I work hard to maintain a reputation as being professional and easy to work with. I make it easy for other agents to preview your home, and show it to buyers.
When you select an agent to market your property, you're hiring them not only for their list of potential buyers, but for their ability to tap into the lists of other people in the business. I constantly lobby my competition and urge them to add my listings to homes they show.

LETTERS from p. 7

who would engage in acts of terrorism, narcotics distribution and/or prostitution, our government's policy of "don't look, don't tell, don't enforce" is, I believe, contributing in no small way to the ever increasing lack of respect for the rule of law that seems so pervasive in our younger culture today. How do we tell our children that we expect them, as citizens, to obey all of the laws of our land, but some of their classmates (and/or their parents) are not expected to; and it's okay with us that they don't? They not only hear what we say about what we believe in, they observe what we do about those beliefs even more intently.

West Sacramento

EDITORIAL from p. 7

utes and tell us to make one or two changes – all very professional.

But then there was the one year in which the newspaper really ticked off the head of the city's public works department, with the first in a series of stories about routine mishandling of city sewage discharges into the river. The autocratic public works director wasn't pleased – and a day after publication, the News-Ledger enjoyed "the mother of all fire inspections."

Five firefighters arrived with clipboards and a flurry of choreographed activity. After a good half-hour, they left us with a stern lecture and a stern laundry-list of fire safety upgrades, some of which were expensive and difficult. Was the news investigation and the fire inspection a coincidence? Your call.

■ More often, speaking out just results in other people raising their own voices in opposition. And usually, they will keep their comments about as civil as you keep yours. But they can get strident, and they can get a little personal. One of our favorite examples of this was when the News-Ledger took a position for tolerance of a gay student club at the local high school. The opposition, in the form of several local church pastors, weighed in with a righteous vengeance, hotly disagreeing, and even making personal innuendo about the staff here. The nastiness surprised us, coming from people who teach Sunday school. But then, maybe you're allowed to do that kind of thing when you're truly righteous.

But these are just a few exceptions to the rule from over the years. Mostly, speaking out brings no pain. In fact, there is often a bit of relief – that's why they call it "getting something off your chest."

So drop us a letter when you have a chance, and you have something to say. It won't kill you.

NOTICE TO ADOPT A NEGATIVE DECLARATION

A Mitigated Negative Declaration has been prepared for the Buck Rodgers Tentative Parcel Map No. 4788 located at 4364 South River Road in West Sacramento. This Mitigated Negative Declaration has been prepared to address the potential environmental impacts of a tentative parcel map to create one 3.67 acre and one 42.30 acre parcel on 45.97 acres zoned for Residential One-Family and Multi-Family (R-1-B, R-2), Public/Quasi-Public (PQP) and Recreation and Parks (R-P) use. The 3.67-acre parcel currently accommodates an agricultural storage shed and a future single-family residence is anticipated. The purpose of the request is to separate the 42.30 acre parcel from the rest of the site so that it can be combined with adjacent parcels and developed to R-1-B, R-2, PQP and RP standards in the future. The Mitigated Negative Declaration concludes that with the implementation of recommended mitigation measures there will be no significant adverse impacts on the environment.

Copies of the Mitigated Negative Declaration are on file in the office of the West Sacramento Community Development Department at 1110 West Capitol Avenue, West Sacramento, CA 95691 (telephone: 916/617-4645).

Any affected or interested parties may appear at the June 16, 2005, Planning Commission/City Council meeting and comment on the Mitigated Negative Declaration and/or the proposed project.

The West Sacramento Planning Commission/City Council will consider adoption of the Mitigated Negative Declaration on June 16, 2005, in the City Council chambers located at 1110 West Capitol Avenue, West Sacramento, CA, 95691 at 6:00 p.m., or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF MILDRED MARLENE KORNER
CASE NUMBER PB05-91

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, Mildred Marlene Korner:

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Bonnie Duncan in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Bonnie Duncan be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on June 16, 2005, at 8:30 a.m., in Dept. 11, Superior Court of California, County of Yolo, 812 Court St., Woodland, CA 95695.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a "Request for Special Notice" (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A "Request for Special Notice" form is available from the court clerk.

Nonprofits

Yolo County's Department of Employment & Social Services is soliciting proposals from public and qualified nonprofit organizations who serve to prevent child abuse, promote intervention and treatment and serve other family functions. ### Seniors' meals

Seniors: tired of cooking for yourself? Afraid you're not heating healthy? Check out the lunch program offered weekdays at noon at the West Sacramento Senior Center, 664 Cummins Way, and prepared by the Elderly Nutrition program. Suggested donation is $2.50, for a hot and complete lunch. Transportation can be arranged if needed, by calling a day early. Call 373-5805 for more information.

Career Centers

Yolo County's One-Stop Career Centers offer counseling to businesses, loan packaging (including bridge or gap funds), assistance with permits, analysis of job skills, business contact referrals and employment connections. A West Sacramento office is located at 500-A Jefferson Blvd. For more information on what the center can do for businesses and for job-seekers, call Steve Roberts, 375-6307.
